

The Company that Helped Build Australia

The “Besser Block” is a household name in Australia, and Adbri Masonry has manufactured this icon in many states for over 40 years.

With Masonry production facilities located along the eastern seaboard, Adbri Masonry has a large team of committed people who are involved in the manufacture of concrete block and pavers, many used in Australia’s most well known developments.

Peter Hurley, General Manager of Adbri Masonry in South Queensland said he has seen some of the country’s most notable constructions built with Hanson products.

“We are extremely proud of our longstanding relationship with Australian builders and architects and to have helped build many of Australia’s top commercial projects,” Mr Hurley said.

Adbri Masonry is Australia’s largest supplier of quality masonry products. Adbri Masonry was formed in July 2008, bringing together two reputable brands, C and M Brick and Hanson Building Products. This was the result of the Adelaide Brighton Groups acquisition of Hanson Building Products. Both Hanson Masonry and C and M brick boast proud histories and both have been foundation companies whose products have helped to build the face of the Australia we now know

“We pride ourselves on our quality and service, and our products are designed to be easy to use and install. I think that’s why you can’t drive through many streets in Australia without catching a glimpse some Hanson products” said Mr Hurley.

According to Mr Hurley, the company spends a great deal of time on research and development in order to meet the ever changing needs of the Australian environment.

“Our team is constantly trialing new colours and materials to ensure we meet future environmental needs and stay at the forefront of design and style.”

“I believe we have been successful because of our attention to quality and our ability to provide customer solutions for many years. Our customers know they are buying a quality, Australian-made product,” Mr Hurley said.

Adbri Masonry supply a diverse range of concrete building and landscaping products including structural concrete blocks, coloured blocks, retaining wall systems, concrete pavers and erosion control solutions.

The company’s extensive production and distribution network ensures competitive pricing, reliable supply and solid technical support for customers.

For more information about Adbri Masonry go to www.adbrimasonry.com.au

